EXPERTISE

Commercial Litigation

Daniel is an associate with Harper Grey and a member of our Commercial Litigation Group representing clients in significant litigation matters. With almost a decade of experience in many different practice areas and business sectors, including product liability, corporate litigation, real estate and energy, Daniel brings a seasoned perspective to his interesting and diverse practice. Daniel represents clients in contractual disputes, the defence of class actions as well as shareholder and related corporate disputes. He also assists clients in transactions that require court approval. Daniel has been called to the Bar in Alberta and British Columbia, and has significant trial experience in lengthy and complex litigation. He has appeared before all levels of court in Alberta and British Columbia, and before the Federal Court. Daniel joined the firm after practicing with a national firm where he practiced exclusively in the litigation group.
